Professional events are often organized ploddingly; organizers are frequently overloaded with requisite administration. Managing a successful event is often physically painful, emotionally draining and financially burdensome. Takeplace offers a comprehensive, integrated and exciting way of planning, organizing and managing an event. It focuses on getting the management and promotion right, while you focus on the event and its participants. Takeplace promotes efficient team work and builds an expert community network of event organizers and participants.

Since Takeplace is online and platform independent, there's nothing to install. Just log in and take control over your events anywhere in the world. Takeplace is a great tool for efficient team work. Due to its modular architecture, it can be tailored to fit exactly your requirements. Takeplace is free, covering the most common event management tasks, and its flexible licencing programme in the Pro Edition allows you to build a specific event workflow with virtually unlimited possibilities.
